WILLIAM<sup>1</sup> GERRISH, the progenitor of probably all who bear the Gerrish name in this country, was born in Bristol, Somersetshire, England, August 20th, 1617, where he is said to have received a mercantile education in the house of Percival Lowle (now written Lowell) & Co. He came to New England as early as 1639 and settled that year in Newbury, Mass. (See Coffin's History of Newbury); was the first Captain of the military band in that town, and Representative in 1650 to '54. He married first, JOANNA, widow of John Oliver, of Newbury, and daughter of Percival Lowle, his former employer in England, April 17, 1645, who died June 14th, 1677, aged 58. He removed to Boston 1678, and there married ANN, widow of John Manning: was the owner of No. 3 Long Wharf, where he carried on business.

At the Semi-centennial anniversary meeting of the town of Boston, March 14, 1686, Capt. Gerrish opened and closed the exercise with prayer. He died at his son Benjamin's house Salem, Mass., Aug. 9, 1687.
